

Miles & More

Mobile boarding pass with SWISS

01.10.2009

If you are flying with SWISS and are using Web Check-in, you can now also have your boarding pass sent directly to your Internet-enabled mobile phone as a text message or e-mail. In addition to the 2D barcode, all the other important information about your flight is contained in the usual text format. Thanks to this technical innovation, you no longer have to print out your boarding pass.

The mobile boarding pass is valid at check-in for checking in your baggage, at passport control, in Duty Free shops and at the gate for boarding your flight. This latest step towards an even more enjoyable travel experience applies initially to all flights departing from Zurich - excluding flights to US destinations. This service will soon be offered at other airports in Switzerland and abroad.

As well as the improvement in the SWISS web check-in procedures other online options are also available to you, such as entering API data (where required) and being able to choose your seat in advance from wherever you are. You can therefore avoid unnecessary queuing at the airport and no longer need to print out your boarding pass. As a result of this innovation, every stage of Web Check-in is now available digitally. And don't forget that online check-in is also possible when travelling with baggage. You can simply check in your bags at one of the separate counters at the airport.

You will find further information here.