

Galathea STS Offers Mobi-Ticket From Mobiqa For The ENTA Software Solution

February 19, 2007 (Edinburgh, UK) -- Galathea STS providers of enta, the industry leading software solution for the sport and entertainment ticketing industry, has entered into a strategic partnership with Mobiqa, the world leaders in mobile ticketing solutions. This important deal will allow users of enta software the added benefit of offering a complete mobile ticketing service to their customers.

The enta solution is used by more than 540 entertainment and sports businesses across 23 countries and contains unsurpassed event ticketing, season ticket, subscription, membership and marketing functionality. Seamlessly integrated with industry specialists and the latest technology, including access control, enta features a comprehensive suite of marketing tools to enhance customer relationship management.

Mobiqa offer a range of mobile barcode solutions including the mobi-ticket™. This is a unique ticket containing a barcode which is sent directly to the customer's phone in the form of a simple text message. mobi-tickets have been used at many prominent, high volume, live events as well as within the sports, music and transport industry. mobi-tickets will be a valuable addition to the enta solution offering the convenience of being able to receive tickets direct to the mobile phone.

mobi-tickets are widely regarded as the future of ticketing as they offer numerous benefits over their paper counterparts. mobi-tickets are cheaper than printing and distributing paper tickets, they are easily reissued if lost or deleted and they save the customer queuing at box offices as they are delivered almost instantly after purchase.

Iain McCready, CEO of Mobiqa comments, "We are absolutely delighted to be working with Galathea STS and we feel that this partnership gives their clients an excellent opportunity to take advantage of a modern, convenient and efficient approach to ticketing. Our mobi-ticket solution has been widely adopted across the globe and we have no doubt that it will prove a popular choice for enta's worldwide customer base."

"As a technology market leader, we are constantly striving for ways to bring innovation to the enta software solution. mobi-ticket adds extra flexibility to the enta offering, enabling our clients to improve their customer service through the choice and convenience of mobile ticketing." Richard Leggatt MD of Galathea STS explains, "We look forward to developing our partnership with Mobiqa, working together to provide cutting edge solutions to change the face of ticket delivery."